GREAT BRITAIN.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The Herald's London special says: The Post has an article on the Cuban question, and gives currency to the assertion that President Grant desires the acquisition of Cuba, in order to divert the attention of Americans from internal distractions. It says that there would be no doubt as to the issue of a conflict. It thinks the acquisition of Cuba would lead to a final acquisition of the whole of the West Indies. France and England will doubtless determine whether these designs against Cuba will be tolerated, or aid Spain in retaining her colony.

The French press has agitated the question much in the same tenor, and special meetings of the French Cabinet were held on Tuesday and Wednesday, which resulted in a special envoy being sent yesterday to London with dispatches referring to the present complication of events.

Serious Railroad Accident on Long Island—Six Passengers Killed.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 23.—A horrible accident is reported on the Long Island railroad. The train which left Hunter's Point at ten this morning, when about one mile east of Jamaica, ran off the track when going at the rate of twenty miles an hour. Six passengers were instantly killed and fifteen others severely injured, two or three mortally. Every person in the rear car was either killed or injured. Among the killed were two women and an infant. The cause of the accident was a broken rail. Among the passengers killed were Wm. C. Rushmore, President of the Atlantic Bank, Brooklyn, and P. Shanahan, a railroad contractor. Among the injured is Mr. Craig, of East Thirtieth street, this city; he is badly cut about the head and his hip is dislocated.

The following is a complete list of the killed and wounded by the accident on the Long Island railroad: Killed: C. Rushmore, President of Atlantic National Bank, Brooklyn; Dr. A. M. Pray, of Brooklyn; Mrs. M. T. Pray, of Brooklyn; mother of Dr. Pray; Geo Van Nostrand, brakeman; P. C. Shanahan, railroad contractor, Newport; Jennie Adams, ten months old, wounded; E. Vangarbreck, of Hoboken; D. C. Craig, General Freight Agent Long Island Railroad; Mrs. Held, New York; Mrs. L. E. Moore, Brooklyn; Mr. E. Magnus; Mrs. Magnus, probably fatally; Ernest Magnus, a boy four years old; Jas. Smith, New York; John Byrne, New York; Mr. Adams and wife, New York.

It is probable the majority of the wounded will recover, their injuries not being of a very dangerous character.

The Flood in Connecticut.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARTFORD, CT., April 23.—The flood in the Connecticut river at noon reached twenty-six feet eight inches, and has since been slowly receding. Front, Commerce and other streets along the river are flooded, and business is suspended and must remain so for several days. There is a break in the causeway on the East Hartford side, so that travel on the highway is suspended. There is no delay of railroad trains. The damage to the Causeway bridge will be $5,000; the loss to business men in the flooded district will be quite large.

WINDSOR LOCKS, April 23.—A portion of the canal supplying the manufactories of this place gave way yesterday, in consequence of the high water in the Connecticut, and all operations will be suspended for a month, or until the canal is repaired. Three hundred operatives are thrown out of employment.

The Flood in New York.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WATERTOWN, N. Y., April 23.—The flood continues with unabated violence. The scenes of destruction are indescribable. Black River, a place about six miles above here, has lost a chair factory, saw mill, dwelling and bridge, costing seven or eight thousand dollars. At the upper dam, in Watertown, Mr. Dougherty's saw mill, Messrs. Wiles & Stewart wagon factory, and Misers tannery, with flume and bulk head, are all swept away, and Remington's magnificent flume has loosened from the rocks to which it was bolted for over seventy feet. A hole was broken through and much damage done it. They have anchored it to the shore with cables and hope to hold the timbers from floating. At the next dam Bagley's iron foundry and machine shop has been assailed today with violence. The boom on the upper dam, holding several acres of timber and flood wood which came down the river, broke and swept down the stream, carrying in its destructive course one of the buildings of Bagley & Sweil; it broke a huge hole in the underpinning of another, and it is believed will crumble it to pieces. One pier of the railroad bridge on the Ogdensburg Branch has been taken out. Lower down, on another branch of the river, Dougherty's grist mill has been torn down and swept away. Kimball's barley mill was broken into and considerably damaged. Coming down into the city, the ruin wrought furnished a sad spectacle. The dam and magnificent flume that fed Vaname & Smith's cabinet factory, Howard's machine shop, Knowlton Bros. paper mill, Lord's plow and mowing machine factory, Haddock's axe factory, Goundrell's sash and door factory, Union Flour Mills and Jefferson Flour Mills, Slow's planing mill and Davis' Sewing Machine Company, were swept out, leaving that branch of the river a scene of ruin.

Lord's factory building has been torn down and Hadcock's axe factory almost entirely destroyed. Mr. Lord's loss is the heaviest in amount. Moulton & Herrick's mill, just below Union, in another dam, is completely undermined and hangs over the river brink with cables to hold it from falling. Knowlton Brothers, had just raised the foundation for the extension of their paper mill. There are scarcely any signs of it left. Nichols' wool carding and cloth dressing factory had one building taken. The Weathersby saw mill went with it, leaving Flynn & Fuller's grist mill to receive the force of the flood, whereby it has been greatly damaged. Farwell & Baker's tannery, just below, has been riddled. The stock was taken out and saved.

At Brownsville and Dexter losses are reported; their extent is unknown. It is said to have been produced in part by the giving way of a dam in John Brown woods which was constructed to hold the water of a chain of lakes. The sight up and down the river resembles Long Sue or Lachine Rapids in St. Lawrence.

UTICA, April 23.—The State dam at North Lake Reservoir, covering about five hundred acres, gave way on Wednesday night, and destroyed mills and other property amounting to $100,000. The dam was located about forty miles northeast of Utica. Engineers have frequently reported the dam unsafe. The natural freshet was receding when the dam gave way.

ALBANY, April 23.—The inundation here continues, the water having receded only about two feet. All railroads to this point are now running regularly. The Central and Hudson River Roads are in good order.

POUGHKEPSIE, April 23.—Trains were obliged to cease crossing by Rile Bridge, two miles south of Albany, on the Hudson River Road, until nine o'clock this morning. No other part of the road was damaged. The trains on all the roads are now beginning to run regularly. The Montreal train will come in to-night.

Fatal Affray at Louisville, Ky., Between River Pilots.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, April 23.—A fatal shooting affray took place at eight o'clock this evening, in a gaming saloon, between two river pilots named Joseph Croxton and Ben Miller. It appears that Croxton entered the room in a state of intoxication, and approaching Miller, who was sitting near a table, drew a revolver and fired as Miller was about to turn his face, the ball taking effect in the shoulders. A violent struggle then ensued, Miller endeavoring to save himself by using chairs, but Croxton fired two additional shots, which proved fatal, and Miller expired. Croxton and Miller had been intimate friends, but lately some misunderstanding had taken place between them, which finally ended in the shocking manner described. Croxton was arrested and committed.

Accident to Workmen—Five Children Poisoned.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, April 23.—Two workmen, employed at the cement mill below Jeffersonville, Ind., while digging a ditch, were buried by the caving in of an embankment. One of the party was instantly killed and the other badly injured.

On Sunday last five children, belonging to the families of Jas. Criswell and John Wainscott, living near Gratz, Ky., were poisoned by eating wild carrott. The son of Mr. Wainscott, aged 12, died after having some forty hard convulsions. The remaining four, Mr. Criswell's children, are still alive, though in a critical condition.

The Flood in Canada.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MONTREAL, April 23.—The ice began to move out of the river last night and the water is rapidly subsiding, being now four or five feet below the wharf wall. Griffintown is left dry, but terribly dilapidated. Danville, St. Hyacinth and St. Andrews are badly flooded. Two men were drowned at the latter place. At Longuil several houses were swept away and two men drowned; also, two men drowned at Upton. The Grand Trunk embankment between Waterville and Lennoxville is washed away.

Excitement on 'Change Concerning Corn in Store.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, April 23.—There has been much excitement on the Board of Trade for the past two days, by the discovery that the corn in several elevators and warehouses was heating, and particularly so in Munn & Scott's elevators; and it is found that owing to the condition of the corn when brought into market, and from the effects of the last severe storm, that nearly all in the city will soon be in the same condition. A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trade was held this afternoon to take action on this condition of affairs. After much discussion, in which, from the tenor of the remarks, it seemed as if nearly every speaker was a seller, the following resolution was offered by S. L. Underwood, and passed:

Resolved, That the delivery of warehouse receipts at the City Elevator shall constitute a full delivery for all cash sales of new corn made yesterday, the 22d inst, if delivered or tendered that day; and also sales of "seller the month," which were tendered yesterday, but not thereafter.

Strong efforts were made to put in other contracts besides those specified in the above resolution, but the Board refused to allow it.

THE BUTLER HOMICIDE.

Trial of Z. Taylor Hockenburry for the Murder of His Cousin, Miss Mary Ann McCandless—Wednesday's Proceedings—Important Testimony Adduced—Threatening Letters of the Prisoner Written to the Deceased Circumstantially Fasten the Crime Upon Him—Interest Increasing.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

Mrs. McCandless was called. Is the mother of Nancy Ann McCandless. On the evening of the 3d of November last, just after they sat down to supper, she heard a shot; her daughter was shot; did not see her fall, but heard Mary say, "Nancy's shot!" went to her and found her on the floor; kind of gathered her up, sitting like, and found her all bleeding; thought she maybe breathed twice, but the blood was gushing out of her nose, so she could not tell. Did not examine the wounds, but could see that her head was all torn. Taylor Hockenburry came there that night after the murder; he stood outside looking in. I went up to him and said, "Taylor, what villain has give me this sore, troubled heart, and murdered my innocent child?" He made no reply; he went into the house, but did not go up to the corpse; watched to see what he would do; he did not go up to look at her, but dodged around behind the other people, and looked as if he wanted to see her; that was all I said to him. The first that I had seen him after the accident was when he stood outside the door; he said nothing to me, made no inquiry; was present and saw him when he was brought in after the inquest, next day; did not speak to him and have not spoke to him since. When I spoke to him that night he hung his head and said nothing. Witness' reason for watching Hockenburry was something that Mary told her after Ann was killed; it was, maybe, not fifteen minutes, maybe not five minutes, after the murder that Mary had told her this something; had not left the room: had asked Mary to bring water, and she ran out and brought some. Witness washed the blood off Nancy's face; were all in an uproar; were lamenting; cannot describe what was going on there.

Prisoner's counsel objected to examining witness as to the prisoner's shooting in the house and the burning of the barn. [Objection noted.] The shooting was done on Saturday night, and the barn was burned two weeks after, on Sunday night. Witness described the shooting, the means used to enter the rooms, beds, &c., just as her husband had done. The balls went across the bed; the first one struck the wall above the clock: the other about eight inches above the bed, and about as far below the head as would have made the ball strike about the shoulders of the persons sleeping in it; was awake when the first shot was fired, but did not hear the person enter the house; it was done very quietly; before the second shot was fired there was a sound like "boo hoo;" could not recognize the voice, but it did run in her mind that she had heard it before; could not tell for sure that the voice called up any person; could not make it out for certain; the voice did not appear like a strange voice; cannot mind that they examined the walls of the room next day for marks of balls; searched the walls in the entry to see if there was any mark of powder; did not think of any one being so cruel as to fire balls among us; did not think of looking over the girl's heads; it was Taylor Hockenburry who first showed us the marks of the balls; witness and her husband were present in another room with Taylor, talking about the shooting; they were saying that they could not see any bullet holes; he said, "I can show you bullet holes;" as soon as he said this, went with him into the room, and he just pointed out the two places; do not remember if the girls were with us; defendant had been in the house, after the shooting, before this time; cannot just think when he was there, he was in the habit of coming so often; cannot just remember about his times of coming; could not tell if he was in this room, before that time, after the shooting; witness was generally at home; might have been at preaching in that time, did not ask him when he had seen the holes, and he did not explain; it was after Hockenburry showed the holes that Simon Alexander picked out a bullet from one of them.

The witness was seriously troubled in trying to give in her testimony about the breaking open of the house on the Sabbath: she found, on coming from church, that her married daughter Lucinda was there, having come in consequence of the breaking; the door had been forced open by a hatchet, and an effort made to force the lock of a bureau.

Cross-examination.—It was Ann slept on the front of the bed; she was nearest the door. The way witness knew that it was the first shot that struck high, beside the clock, is that Nancy said she heard the clock jingle when it struck. The paper on the wall is all spotted; could not easily distinguish the holes from the spots. The bureau, attempted to be forced open, stands in the same room where the firing was done; kept money in that drawer; there might have been three hundred dollars in it at that time; saw nothing of any attempt to force any other drawer; say it was a hatchet used, because Ann told witness it was a hatchet the man had used. Taylor lived with witness; was very quiet; did not always answer when spoken to; never went off to frolics. Witness was very much confused the evening of the murder; said nothing to Taylor that evening but what she has stated; did not shake hands with him; did not swear, before the inquest, that she shook hands with him.

Prosecution objected to asking witness if she had not suspected a neighbor, not now in the country, as the incendiary.

Court decided that, as the prosecution had attempted to connect prisoner with the burning of the barn, the question was proper.

Witness had some suspicions; it was among the Pisers; it was Oliver Piser: he was her half sister's husband; lived on the adjoining farm, down the lane a little bit. There was some talk that it might have been Piser who did the shooting in the house. Witness might have suspected Mr. Thompson, himself, but had not at that time. [This raised a laugh.] There was talk of Oliver Piser suing her husband for slander, for saying he did the shooting and the barn burning; was on bad terms with Piser: never wanted to buy Piser's place, but did not care how soon he left the country; had bad boys, who used to throw stones at the house of witness as they passed to school, and stone the hogs; was glad when they left the country; never suspected Jimmy Gritton; had no suspicion of Jimmy; last time she heard of him was when Mr. Kennedy brought him from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. Piser sold out about a year ago and went to Missouri: have not heard of any of his family living in this part of the country since; the breaking in of the house on Sabbath was after the Pisers left.

There was a good deal of mirth in Court over the testimony of this witness. From the sound of the voice which said "boo hoo" on the night of the shooting, she thought it might have been Piser's.

Cross-examination resumed. Do not remember telling my daughter that that might have been Piser's voice, but it did come into my mind that it might have been him.

Mary McCandless was next called. Is a daughter of George C. McCandless, and sister of Mary Ann McCandless. She described the position of the family at table the evening of the murder, just as the other two witnesses had done; did not see Annie fall; was just going to say to Annie that "there was some more of Taylor's shooting." [Counsel objected, and this was stricken out.] Saw her on the floor and said to mother "Annie's shot;" mother went to her; told me to go and fetch some water; fetched the water and went away again, for the sight was so horrible that I didn't like to witness it; went out into the kitchen; that was all I know; observed mother washing Annie with the water; she had just raised her, sitting up like, and was washing the blood off her; heard no noise before the firing: no barking of the dog; no curtains on the window; the window paper was rolled up; attention had not been called to the window before the shooting; was so badly scared that she did not know what her father did: do not know if he went to the neighbors; yes, father did go to Barkley's; did not see Taylor Hockenburry there that night; saw him come to the house next morning; he was with the constable; did not speak to him; saw him come into the house; did not hear him say anything; on the evening before Annie and father and I were gathering apples; it was beginning to get dark; father brought in the apples; Annie held the candle: I helped father to shoulder the apples; saw a man go down the road toward the church; did not know who it was; sister did not say that she saw him; saw the man by the light of the candle; he was walking fast; do not know for certain how long that was before the shot was fired; suppose it was a half hour.

Witness was asked to state what occurred in the house at the time of the former shooting. Mr. Thompson objected for the defence. Overruled. She and her sister were sleeping in the room with father and mother; heard a shot fired; sat up in the bed; Annie told her to lie down; laid down and a second shot was fired; knew the shots came from the door by the sound; it made a flash; saw no person; he made a sound; went "boo, boo, boo" like; it was before the shot was fired; a very short time elapsed between the first and second shot; had just only laid down; nothing was said at that time as to who had fired the shot; nothing was said next day about holes in the wall; don't know why Taylor, the prisoner, first showed us the holes; it was the time he showed them to father and mother and sister Annie; I was present; that was the first time I had seen them; do not remember the day of the week; he asked if he had seen bullet holes; father said he had not, and he said he could show them to him; we all went into the room and he showed them; he just went up to the bed and pointed them out; he did not look about much; he said there was a bullet hole; then looked up and said there was the other one; defendant had not before been in the room after the shooting, that witness knew of; had not heard anything at the time of shooting like balls striking the wall; observed no jingle or rattle; does not know why they had not examined the walls; saw Jimmy Alexander take the ball out; Jimmy worked for father; the ball was taken out of one of the places Taylor had pointed out; he stood on a chair to reach it.

She showed on the wall that the other bullet hole was about a foot above the bed; if she had remained sitting up thinks the ball would have struck her. Defendant lived about the house several years; was like a member of the family; went through the house as he wished; he always seemed to be friendly; sister and he had correspondence by letter; knew of him writing to her; she did not write to him; saw the letters he wrote; she showed them to me; saw a couple of letters; read them both; they were dated; cannot state the date; remember the first one was in '67; the other in the winter following. Mr. Thompson objected to this question and answer. Overruled. Mr. McJunkin withdrew the question and the answer was struck out, and prosecution submitted proposition in writing.

Court adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Mr. McJunkin read his proposition, which was to prove that defendant had written letters to deceased, which letters cannot be found, but were read by witness.

Examination resumed—Saw her sister have two letters; did not know where she kept them; showed them to witness, who read them. Father fetched her one of them from the office, and Emma Zilla McCandless brought the other. They were both sealed when they were brought to her sister; saw her sister receive them; took them to be in his writing; had seen his writing; had seen the defendant with her; went to school with him; believe these letters were in the handwriting of defendant; Annie burned them; it was not long after she got them that she burned them; saw her burn them; it looked as if both were together when she burned them; is not certain; have searched for these letters; have not been able to find them; does not know of her sister getting any other letters; sister had them in her hands, and witness had them in her hands; have looked in drawers and bandboxes, and have searched so as to be satisfied the letters are not now to be found; searched a great many times; it was out of the envelope when witness had it in her hands; sister had the envelope in her hands. The envelope was addressed to Miss Nancy Ann McCandless; both letters had this address: "Miss Nancy Ann McCandless, Prospect Post Office." This is the office where they got their mail; read each twice; could give some of the contents of the letters. They were middling short. It was common white paper, not letter paper, they were written upon; not a whole sheet; does not know if they were on half sheets; does not know if they

CHRISTUS SYLVÆ.

BY F. B. PLIMPTON.

I.

The lizard and the water-snake,
All things that haunt in turn and brake,
Breed where, through fretting reeds and flags.
The sluggish Pymatusing lags.
The winds, grown heavy as with death,
(So do they feel the poisonous breath
Of snaky vines, green spume of sedge
And fern, that fringe the river's edge,)
Swoon where the waters darkly pass,
Stained with the stain of bruised grass.
Roots of dead things, and leaves that years
Have scorched with fires and steeped with tears.

Broad flats there are to left and right;
A wilderness whose mystic shades
Nor light of sun or moon invades,
Where fear the startled foot makes light
As steps among lone graves at night.
From tangled undergrowth uprise
Thick-fruited beeches, hickories,
Elms pendulous, and walnuts hoar,
The ghostly-armored sycamore,
And rugged oaks, from whose green cowls,
Hoot the long night the hooded owls.

II.

Drawn strangely to this solitude.
One came whom no man understood.
Painter and sculptor he had wrought
In outward forms his inward thought,
Whereof the meaning dimly guessed
The rude who stared and round him pressed.
They knew what flocks were best afield,
What lands would fattest harvests yield;
Seasons they knew and times, but not
The painter's dream, the sculptor's thought,
And whispered, when they passed him by,
"Hist! he hath madness in his eye."

Careless of good report or ill,
He wrought with hand of patient skill
In form, and line, and shade, to tell
A tale of tales most wonderful:
How, touched with sorrow for our state,
Heaven opened wide its pearly gate,
And One, to wound our sinful pride,
Descended, prayed for us, and died.

One face upon his canvas shone,
One face he carved in wood and stone,
Wherein great pity was, and love,
And suffering the heart to move;
Yet so div ne its gracious air
That women came and worshipped there,
And men, who thought to scoff and jeer,
Turned to wipe off th' unbidden tear.

But he, the artist, was as one
Who, in a language not his own,
Strives to make clear the laboring sense:
Or one who hears in holy hours
Voices that seem from native land—
The angels singing to the flowers—
Know them, yet can not understand.
And though unskilled on instruments,
Yet seeks to utter through their keys
The burden of these melodies;
So, trying oft as oft in vain,
To shape the image of his brain,
With troubled countenance he cried,
"Unsatisfied! unsatisfied!"
And in great grief none understood,
Withdrew him to the solitude.

III.

"Lord Christ!" he prayed, hand smiting hand,
In the drear shadow of the land,
"As thou didst show thyself to her
Who waited at the sepulchre,
Reveal thyself once more to sight,
And out of darkness bring the light.
Make clear my inward sense of Thee—
Love softening heavenly majesty,
Grace shining through a cloud of pain,
Patience to bear and not complain,
Forgiveness conquering sense of wrong,
And pity for a scoffing throng.
So shall these hands obedient trace
The features of no mortal face,
And men shall say, Behold, how fair!
The presence of a God is there."

And still he prayed: "Lord! thou art here
Embracing as the atmosphere;
Thy love the woodbirds' notes confess;
Thy ark is in the wilderness.
So will I carve my thought of Thee,
And fashion from the living tree
In Thine own temple shall it stand
O'erlooking all the lonely land,
And men shall say approaching near,
"Behold, our Father dwelleth here."

IV.

So said. From out fair ranks of trees
He chose (for sweetness stung by bees,)
One whose green top the morning sun
Was first of trees to look upon.
The fragrant bows he lopped; it stood
Bare as when winters scourge the wood,
Or lightnings rive, or tongues of fire
Outrun the winds in keen desire
There wrought in holy solitude
This man whom no man understood,
And through the silence of the air
At evening rose the solemn prayer,
"In thine own temple, Lord, appear!"

V.

When frosts make silvery every sound,
And scarlet trumpets fire the ground,
Two hunters, wandering through the wood,
Saw with awed eyes, and understood.
Prone at the carved tree's gnarled base
One dead they saw, and shining there,
Clear in the crystal of the air,
A face that seemed no mortal face—
The presence of a God was there!

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

It is rather amusing to one acquainted with the polity of the Methodist Episcopal Church, to read the views of some secular journals, on lay representation, the vote on which is to be taken in June next. An exchange represents that the question of the "reconstruction of Methodism by the admission of lay delegates in the Conferences, has been agitated one hundred years with a gradually home interest in its favor." Rather long to worry over a question of right, at least, awarded to the laymen of other respectable religious bodies. We are reminded of this subject by reading the generous action of the Philadelphia Conference on this question, in striking contrast to the conservative course of the Pittsburgh Conference, at its late session. The action of the Conference at the other end of our State, in brief, heartily approves of the action of the General Conference, enjoin pastors to assist in securing a full vote, urges the sisters to vote, and finally in the fifth resolution says: That we venture to express the hope that the proposed plan will so far secure the sanction of our laity and ministry as to authorize the next General Conference to incorporate it as a part of the economy of the Church. This body of ministers did not regard it a delicate thing to express in advance of the vote, their wish that it would be favorable to the change desired. We venture to suggest again, that the laymen of this Church in this community meet and adopt some uniform action in order to secure a full vote. It has been suggested that each church have what is familiarly known as a "church sociable," to attract a full attendance and relieve the business-like look that such occasions often have, especially to females. We are in favor of the fullest liberty of "woman's rights" on this question, not only among the Methodists, but among all denominations.

Last week the Presbyterian Union question assumed a new role. A Committee of Conference of the Old School, New School, and United Presbyterian Churches, was held in Philadelphia to agree upon a Basis of Union. There were present from the Old School Drs. Musgrave and McGill, and Hon. R. McKnight, of Pittsburgh; New School, Dr. Humphrey; United, Drs. J. T. Pressly, D. R. Kerr, of Pittsburgh, and Davidson. Dr. Fisher (N. S.) was detained at home by sickness. We are informed the basis agreed upon is in accordance with the Philadelphia Convention, with slight modifications. In adopting the "Westminister Confession," the article pertaining to the Civil Magistrate is excepted, and the Larger and Shorter Catechisms are added. The article on Psalmody is changed somewhat. (1.) It is declared that GOD has given the Psalms of David to be sung in all ages of the Church, and it is recommended that a new and modern version be prepared. (2.) If any Church prefers to use the present versions of the Psalms of David, its right to do so shall not be challenged. The Banner, from which we learn this information, says, that we suppose in reference to the Psalmody matter, that the proposition is that whilst the new version shall be the approved and authorized Psalmody of the United Church, yet the use of the old verson or evangelical hymns shall be permitted.

The Independent represents that there is a "Crazy Club" in Brooklyn. It has no constitution or by-laws, but has regular meetings. The member who holds the meeting invites fourteen persons who must be all "crazy" on the matter of Sunday Schools. No other topic is to be spoken of, and its introduction would be immediately discountenanced.

The Philadelphia Preachers' Meeting of the M. E. Church are discussing the following question: "Is any bankrupt, who has been released from legal obligation to pay his debts, thereby released from moral obligations to pay them should he ever become able?"

The Presbyterian church at Monongahela City has received a number of persons recently into church fellowship on examination; twenty-four additions in all during the past year.

Efforts are being made to found a Sunday School Scholarship in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of the Northwest. The scholarship is to be twenty-five hundred dollars, the interest of which is to be used in aiding a continuous succession of worthy young men in preparing for the ministry. Twenty-five cents and upwards are received towards the object.

The National Sabbath School Convention is to open its session at Newark, New Jersey, on the twenty-eighth of April. Mr. George H. Stuart, of Philadelphia, is proposed as Chairman, and Rev. Edward Eggleston, of Chicago, as Secretary. It will be a grand affair. We hope our city will be well represented in the Convention.

A home for aged and infirm Baptists is about to be established in one of the Eastern cities. Recently fifty thousand dollars was secured in New York.

The New York Tribune very sensibly remarks in regard to the opening of public libraries on the Sabbath, that the largest liberty is already allowed to those who desire to borrow books, which are loaned without money and without price; whoever desires to borrow a book on Saturday for the purpose of reading it upon Sunday, can do so, and further than this we can not think it desirable to go, unless provision is also made for closing the libraries upon a secular day in order that those who are employed in them may have proper rest. Persons too lazy to get a book on Saturday would like to lounge on Sunday in a library.

After Confirmation had been gone through with by Bishop Quintard, at Memphis, Tennessee, recently, a colored man presented himself for confirmation. The Bishop remarked this person, through a misunderstanding only, failed to come forward with those who first presented themselves. The Church of Christ, he said, knows no distinction among her members in her privileges. The differences which maintain in society cannot be recognized in the house of God.

The American Bible Society has received from all sources, during the past year ending April 1st, seven hundred and thirty-one thousand dollars—never exceeded by any previous year except one. The impression has heretofore prevailed that the usual May anniversary exercises would not be held this year, but an exchange states that the Society is making arrangements for an anniversary of great interest.

Trinity church, (Episcopal,) New York, has a yearly income from rents and investments of eight hundred thousand dollars.

The Elders in the Christian church, in Lexington, Ky., have taken decided grounds against whisky and whisky makers, and have determined not to allow members of their church to manufacture or sell it exclusively, in large or small quantities.

THE season is unusually backward in the New England States. In the southern part of New Hampshire, not more than forty miles north of Boston, the fields are mostly covered with snow yet, and the farmers say they have never known a spring when the snow melted so slowly. In the vicinity of Danbury, N. H., about three feet on a level, and in some places the drifts were ten feet deep. It will be some time yet before anything can be done about the agricultural spring work in the northern and central parts of New England. In Connecticut there has been but little snow during the whole winter, and the farmers near New Haven are reported to have commenced plowing their fields for sowing and planting. As far south as Maryland, the agriculturists are complaining of a late season, and early vegetables and fruits are not as forward as usual at this time of the year.

THE Freiberg School of Mines is now receiving among its students a large number of young men from the United States. The first student from this country entered in 1819, and was Wm. H. Keating, of Philadelphia. The number since then amounts to one hundred and thirty, of whom seventy-nine attended in the last five years. The institution was established in 1855, at Freiberg, in Saxony, on the river Mulde, twenty miles southwest of Dresden.

From the May Magazines.

ARE HOOP SKIRTS WORN.

Mme. Demorest's Magazine discusses this important question thus: This is a very general inquiry. The small size of the present hooped skirt, compared with those worn a few seasons ago, has caused such a diminution in apparent rotundity that gentlemen very naturally come to the conclusion that hooped skirts have gone out at last; and even ladies, coming in from the country, and accustomed to the somewhat more apparent crinoline of the rural district, see with surprise the scantiness of the short dresses, and ask also if hoop skirts have been discarded.

As yet, we are happy to say, most decidedly NO, and we do not think it all likely that they will be. There are always a few persons, principally the sort of young ladies who affect the "Grecian Bend," who will push any idea to an extreme; they wore the largest "tilts," and the longest "trails," and now when tilts and trails are both discarded, and a modest, moderate size hooped skirt has been universally adopted, they sink for a moment the object of their long regard altogether, and rejoice in the attention which street idlers give to the Shaker-like singularity of their costume.

A street-dress, or dress of any kind, worn entirely without hoops, is exceedingly uncomfortable; it flaps about the ankles most forlornly, clings ungracefully to the lower part of the body, and absolutely demands a little distension to make it endurable. Several ladies who abandoned crinoline early in the season have returned to it, and expressed the determination of never again discarding it utterly.

In Paris there is a tendency to increase the size of hoops rather than relinquish them. In America ladies seem to have settled down on a skirt that promotes health and comfort, while it gives them not the slightest inconvenience. A little expansion of the drapery of the dress they know is necessary to comfort in walking, and if hoop skirts were abandoned, it would not be three months before we should feel compelled to return to the old misery of grass-cloth, starched white skirts, and the like machinery, that costs infinitely more trouble, and ten times the expense, of the small, economical and healthful hooped skirt, which, it seems to us, is just now arriving at perfection.

New Mode of Tanning.

A patent for a new method of tanning is thus described:

The principal feature of this invention consists in the manner of preparing the extract and of its appliance to the hides. The bark is first reduced to the fineness of corn meal, when it is treated as the mash of distillers. From the "mash-tub" it is passed through an ingeniously contrived filler to tubs, where it is fermented, (a process never before discovered,) when it is again passed through a series of filters and is then ready to be applied to the hides, which are placed in a frame constructed to revolve in a water-tight receiver containing the extract—the hides being separated by lattice frames so constructed as to admit of a free current of liquor between them at all times. They are then slowly revolved with the grain side uppermost for the required length of time, when the movement is reversed. Passing through this receiver are hot and cold water pipes for the purpose of retaining the required temperature, and attached to it is a barkometer, by means of which the strength of the liquor can at all times be seen, and consequently the rate of absorption by the hides. There is also attached an appliance for withdrawing the weakened and of supplying its place with fresh liquor.

The hides are then stretched in a frame similar to the first, when they are revolved in the air at a rapid rate until dried. It is claimed for this process:

1. The alcohol being retained, the liquor is always kept sweet and clear of gallic acid. It having been proven that alcohol is of vital importance in rapid tanning and mellowness of leather cured by it, this is of itself worthy to be classed among the great inventions of the day.
2. The extract having passed through two series of filters, it is entirely clear of all dirt or sediment, which insures a leather free from all extraneous matter.
3. The method of applying the extract to the hides, the hides always presenting a flat surface for its action, hastens the absorption of the tanning, and thus quickens the work of tanning.
4. The hides being dried whilst lying stretched in a frame, there will be no drawing of the grain.

PROFESSOR MITCHELL, the well known Mathematician, died at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, on Monday afternoon, from general debilty. He was 76 years of age. Professor Mitchell was the father of Miss Maria Mitchell, the Astronomer, who was born in Nantucket, Mass., August 1, 1818. He was at that time engaged in teaching at that place, and devoted much of his time to the study and practice of Astronomy. When his daughter was only 11 years of age, he took her into his school as a pupil and assistant teacher, and she very soon discovered a fondness for the science and an aptness in the use of instruments that made her an enthusiastic co-operator with her father in his favorite study. Subsequently she conducted many careful observations by herself, and on October 1st, 1847, while searching for comets, discovered a telescopic one which was seen at Rome two days after by Father da Vico. For this she received a Gold medal from the King of Denmark. Prof. Mitchell was a member of the Society of Friends. His remains were taken to Nantucket for burial.

AN INDEX to Canadian opinion appears in the annexed extract from the St. John (N. B.) Freeman: It is worse than useless to attempt to conceal the fact that a desire for annexation is fast spreading among the people; that the conviction that annexation is our ultimate destiny is rapidly gaining ground in this part of the Dominion, and not amongst any particular party or class, but among all parties; and especially among those who were most active and most earnest Confederates, many of whom do not hesitate to avow that they always regarded confederation as the first decided step toward annexation.

A ST. LOUIS paper of the 20th says: As one of the results of the hail storm here yesterday, it is stated, on the authority of physicians, that over one hundred premature births occurred last night and to-day, brought on by the excitement, and in many cases terror, caused by the storm. Nearly every doctor in town has had more than he could do.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhœa or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.

A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.

It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.

The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

River and Weather.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, April 23.—River falling with nine feet in the canal. Weather clear and pleasant.

RIVER NEWS.

The river was receding steadily last evening, with ten feet in the channel by Monongahela marks. Weather cloudy and close, with every appearance of rain.

The Grey Eagle, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is the regular packet for Parkersburg today, leaving promptly at noon.

The Glendale departed for St. Louis yesterday afternoon, with a splendid trip, about six hundred and fifty tons of freight, and full of passengers. Pilots—Crane and Bobo.

The huge tow boat Ajax departed for New Orleans yesterday, with about 240,000 bushels of coal.

The Glasgow, from Dubuque, is the only transient arrival we have to report. She had a good trip, and will commence loading for St. Louis and the Upper Missouri again early next week. Marsh Hays and Tom Javens were her pilots from Cincinnati.

The Bellevernon, Capt. J. J. Darragh, Jr., is filling up rapidly, and will be the first boat out for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi. She is in all respects a tip-top boat, while in regard to speed she is hard to beat.

The tow boat Ella, which left here yesterday with a tow of coal, came in concact with one of the piers of the Steubenville bridge and sunk, according to report, four barges and one boat. This nuisance has sunk nearly as much coal as it is worth.

The R. C. Gray, Capt. Isaac Whittaker, is filling up steadily for Cincinnati and Louisville.

The Mary Davage and barges, Capt. Shedden, are announced to leave for St. Louis to-day, and shippers should bear this in mind.

—The Kate Putnam was to have left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Thursday.

—The Emperor, which has been tied up at Parkersburg for some time on account of a disagreement among her owners, was bonded out by Val. Horton, Esq., of Cincinnati, and towed to Pomeroy by the Fleetwood.

—The War Eagle and Sucker State arrived at St. Paul from St. Louis on Tuesday night, being the first boats through Lake Pepin this season. The latter brought the Twentieth U. S. Infantry, bound for Fort Snelling, Brevet Major General Sickles commanding.

—The Kate Putnam, enroute from Nashville to Pittsburgh, has the following items of Pittsburgh freight: 3,381 bgs corn, Duff & Sons; 42 hides, Springer, H & Co; 55 bgs peanuts, 11 bales cotton, 8 bgs feathers, J Dickey & Co; 26 bgs peanuts, Goodheart & Co; 40 bales cotton A. H. Childs & Co.

—The Cairo correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writes us as follows: The Republic left N. O. about the same time as the R. E. Lee, and although she had over 1,200 tuns on board, arrived here only 15 hours behind the Lee, which had 200 tuns on, just enough to put her in the best running trim. If the Lee has need to fear any rival in speed, that rival is certainly the Great Republic.

—In January the Lawrence made one trip from Cincinnati to Wheeling in command of Capt. Muhlman. On the trip up, one of her deck hands took sick and at his own request was paid off and put ashore at Parkersburg. The Lawrence, coming down from Marietta, landed at Parkersburg on Monday, and a city official made his appearance and attached the boat for the payment of a fine of $175, imposed for having put off a case of small-pox at that place. Capt. Hart gave security in the sum of $300, and the case is to have a hearing.

—A St. Louis telegram under date of Wednesday says: It was stated on Change to-day, that the Atlantic & Mississippi Steamship Co. are laying up their boats as fast as they arrive here, and that they are winding up the business of the company. The tug Antelope has been purchased by H. Loury and Capt. Parker of Dubuque, for $23,000, and will be used to move a large amount of ice to this and other point, and then be put to towing grain from the upper country to St. Louis. She is now bound to Dubuque with 30,000 bushels of coal.

—An interesting case has just been decided on an appeal in the St. Louis Circuit Court. Anthony E. Rebetta shipped on the steamer David Watts for a trip to Fort Benton and return at $40 per month in May, 1867. The Watts became disabled and was unable to proceed further than Plattsmouth, and there transferred her freight to the Tacony, and Rebetta and other hands were requested to resume the voyage on that boat, but refused. The suit was brought for a months wages, which the Watts had refused to pay on account of broken contract. The Court held that the contract ended with the transfer of the freight to another boat under a different set of officers, and that the plaintiff did not forfeit his pay by refusing to go on the Tacany.

THE latest news from Cincinnati is that the Erie road has leased the broad-gauge track of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton Railway, for ten years, on terms satisfactory to both Companies.

THE BUTLER Citizen has passed under the editorial charge of J. H. NEGLEY, Esq., who thus retu.ns to a vocation from which he retired, eleven years since. Welcoming him, the readers of the Citizen will regret to part with Mr. C. E. ANDERSON, the retiring editor.

A LEADING Democratic journal in Ohio, the Dayton Ledger, discussing State politics, and the best nomination for Governor of that State, gives the SEYMOUR and BLAIR Convention, of last year, the following first-rate notice:

"We want no such fear and trembling, no such timidity and utter absence of common sense as led the New York Convention to reject the only nomination that would have placed success within our grasp. Let us have no more such cowardice and blundering."

WE take pleasure in accommodating the friends of Hon. ASA PACKER, in announcing that the rumor of his withdrawal from the canvass for the Democratic nomination as Governor, is altogether discredited in well informed quarters. Indeed his friends denounce the report as a weak invention, in the interests of his rivals.

CONSIDERING the very great variety and importance of the Executive business before the Senate since the new Administration came in, and remembering the urgency with which candidates for office have pressed their claims for the confirmation of their nominations, it should surprise no one to see mistakes occasionally made. But all our charity is required, to find any satisfactory explanation of the success of the nominee for the Swedish mission, in securing the approval of that body. He is not and never was a Republican, nor even a friend of President GRANT. His nomination was promptly repudiated by West Virginia, which has filled the mails and telegraphic wires, for the week past, with its indignant protests against his confirmation. All over the West, this man CARLISLE is scorned as politically a traitor—as complete a "copperhead" as VALLANDIGHAM or VOORHIES. How he has contrived to deceive the Administration and to humbug the Senate in this way, is a mystery for which not even a plausible explanation has appeared. The mystery is the greater, since the proper Committee had already reported upon the case unfavorably. Let us, however, give to the Senate its deserved credit for the rejection of the nomination of Mr. SANFORD, for Madrid. That diplomatist who combines the deportment of a Turveydrop with the moral dignity of a Pecksniff, is to remain at Brussels, for the present, the Senate, in that view, declining to confirm the nomination of his successor at the Belgian Court. It is possible that General SICKLES will now be sent to Spain. His ability is beyond question, while criticisms upon his official discretion, which might have been just, ten years since, have no longer any good foundation. It is certain that the delicately critical character of our relation with the Spanish government, just now, effectively requires the highest grade of diplomatic ability in the resident representative of the Republic.

—Since the above was written, we learn that the confirmation of CARLISLE was reconsidered, and so left without action when the Senate yesterday adjourned sine die. Thus, the nomination falls, and the post awaits a fresh appointment by the President.

CUBA—FOREIGN INTERVENTION.

The Cable reports that the present posture of the Cuban question has roused a sudden and deep interest at the English and French Courts, which are said to be in an active secret correspondence relative to their most judicious policy for the occasion. This report comes to a New York journal which is usually known to be unreliable, but which has contrived to maintain a very uncertain sort of reputation by its occasional success in the earliest publication of important news.

Whatever may seem the necessity, to the diplomatists of Paris and London, for fixing upon a common policy in regard to this question, there need be no serious fears, among our own people, that England and France will ever fire a hostile shot in the defence of the transatlantic rights of Spain, unless these shall be invaded by American aggressions entirely without the color of an excuse. Give to us a prima facie case, against the Spanish Government, and we shall find ourselves able to pursue it to results limited only by our capacity and our ambition, and without a finger of menace being lifted by the great powers of Europe. Without a case founded upon some resonable complaints, our aggressions upon Spain might be, and ought to be, resisted by those powers, in the highest interests of public law. But the just responsibility of any European power, however weak, for unlawful encroachments upon American rights, will not be resisted, under present circumstances, by the intervention of either France or England, no matter if we were otherwise to win a half score of Cubas and Porto Ricos.

The surest way to bring about the speedy annexation of the Spanish Islands to the Republic, would be found in the results of such an intervention. A single menace from England or France, jointly or separately, directed against the United States, in the matter of this Spanish business, would precipitate a war upon their alliance in ninety days, and that would end inevitably in the conquest of those Islands, and, with them, of the English Bahamas and of the whole Archipelago. Such a menace would unite our people as one man; nice questions of diplomacy and even of international law would be instantly forgotten, so far as concerns the inferior power, and the Republic would look for a higher foe, and the older claims of an insulted flag. England's title to her own islands would not then be worth a year's purchase, and her Canadian dominion would as speedily become a myth.

Certainly, the true policy of the Great Powers would aim to preserve the Spanish authority in her islands by every form of peaceful intervention. The pressure of their mediation and remonstrance at Madrid will accomplish, if need be, the complete solution of the present difficulty. So far from arming on the side of Spain against us, those Powers will persuade her to satisfy our just complaints. Whatever force they may use will be exhibited at Madrid and not on the American coast. They will save Cuba to Spain by their friendly diplomacy, or not at all.

England has nothing to gain, but everything to lose, by a transatlantic war. France has as little taste for it, or profit in it. Without her colonies, Spain would have been absorbed, before this, by her powerful neighbor beyond the Pyrenees. Why should France arm for their preservation to the Spanish crown? In European politics, each six months brings its crisis which would be fatal to a French Empire involved in a great American war.

There is really small prospect of our winning the first West Indian Island, until its own people shall first win the right and the power to dispose of themselves, and shall entertain a hearty disposition for union with the Republic. In this way only, are we likely to acquire Cuba, or San Domingo. And it is only in this way that Canadian annexatien will ever become a fact. We shall have no war with Spain, France or England, separately or allied, until we shall have first, ourselves, spurned every honorable concession in the interests of peace. And these concessions will be offered to us, if we evince a decent willingness to receive them.

ODD FELLOWSHIP.

Fifty years ago, the Order of Odd Fellowship was instituted in the States. The semi-centenial anniversary will occur on Monday next, with appropriate ceremonies in nearly every large community in the country. The sixty-five thousand members of the order in this Commonwealth will be very fully represented in the exercises at Philadelphia on that day, which are expected to attest the vast social influence and the fraternal virtues of Odd Fellowship. Of the membership in Pennsylvania, about twenty-five thousand reside in Philadelphia, and by these the most hospitable reception is pledged to their visiting brethren. One of these, Gen. T. A. ROWLEY, of Pittsburgh, has been selected as the Chief Marshal of the day.

This Order numbers, it is said, two hundred and twenty-five thousand enrolled and recognized members in this country, and more in Pennsylvania than in any other state, in proportion to total populations. There is reason to believe that the Order has never been more prosperous than now, or with brighter promise for an increasing prosperity to come. Purely a charitable and social organization, the secresy of its ritual, and the uniformity of its interests and purposes, have never been made the cover for political intrigue, nor even associated, by uninitiated prejudice, with partizan aims or selfish designs of any sort upon the freedom of popular opinion. The Odd Fellows claim, and we are disposed to think it is with absolute justice, that, as faithful votaries of Friendship, Love and Truth, their aim has been to elevate mankind, individually and socially, to the plane of a higher morality, and of a strictly just regard for the obligations of the family, of good neighborhood and of the law. Certainly, there must be some degree of intrinsic justice in claims of this sort, when a brief half century has been short enough for gaining so strong a hold upon the popular regard, and not long enough to afford the faintest proof that Odd Fellowship has ever once been made an instrument for unworthy ends. An order which illustrates the purity of its principles, and the sincerity of its practice, by fifty years of uncontradicted fidelity to the praiseworthy aims of its original founders—which has visited the sick, buried the dead, cared for widows and orphans, raised many a citizen from self-degradation, and inspired all its members with nobler and more practical views, both of individual and of social duty—such an organization is entitled to the highest commendation of moralists, and even to the kindly regard of statesmen. Let us all be thankful that American society can point, even in this era of political debasements, and of increasingly flagrant public and private vice in every walk of life, to the healthful activity of Odd Fellowship, and more than one other similar institution, for their maintenance of purer friendships, a more perfect love and a spotless truth.

CO-OPERATIVE LAUNDRIES.

Some months ago the Chicago Evening Post contained an article on Co-operative Laundries, from which we extracted the most noticeable facts for the benefit of our readers. The Post's article did not fall flat, as many excellent suggestions do, but was cogitated over, and argued upon by the people of Kalamazoo,—a city near Chicago and in the State of Michigan—the result of which was, that a committee of intelligent gentlemen, members of the Social Science Association of Kalamazoo, was appointed to investigate the matter and form rational estimates of the cost of such an establishment and the cost of washing done therein. The following extracts from the report of this committee will show the result of its labors:

"The first cost of establishing a laundry in Kalamazoo would be, as nearly as can be ascertained, about as follows:

Lot	$ 500
Building, 23x65	1,500
Boarding house	1,500
Twelve horse boiler and six horse engine	1,200
Washing machine, 2d size, 4 tubs	400
Centrifugal wringer	250
Mangle	1,010
Shafting	100
Pulleys and belting	100
Drying room	50
Steam pipe, 300 feet	110
Ironing stove and fixts	30
Horse, wagon and harness	300
Cutter	50
Drainage and sewerage	75
Boiler, tubs and wringers	100
Barn	200
Overseer's salary 2 months, during construction	200
Safe	100
Items omitted or undercharged, and sundries	905
Total	$9,000

"Some of the above items are only approximate. Of course, the location in the immediate vicinity of the centre of the town would be more expensive, but would obviate the necessity of a boarding house, and would probably secure a larger amount of transient custom. On the other hand, it would be very desirable to have land enough to admit of bleaching the clothes when necessary."

Now these estimates may, we think, be taken as about as correct for us as for Kalamazoo. Land would be a little dearer here than elsewhere, and the pipes, boilers and iron-work generally a little cheaper, but the total would probably come to pretty much the same thing. In such a laundry the Kalamazoo Committee has estimated that the monthly expenses would be

Interest on $9,000 at 15 per cent. per annum	$ 112 50
Repairs and renewal, 15 per cent. per annum	112 50
Insurance, $5,000 on building, and $5,000 on clothes, at 3 per cent. per annum	25 00
Taxes, say $60 per annum	5 00
Laundress, at $45 per month	45 00
Six girls, at $30 per month	180 00
Engineer, $50 per month	50 00
Driver, $30 per month	30 00
Superintendent, $100 per month	100 00
Bookkeeper, $12 per month	12 00
Starch, bluing and soap, $35 per month	35 00
Fuel, $50 per month	50 00
Boy, $20 per month	20 00
Stationery, advertising, &c., $10 per month	10 00
Sundries, incidentals, etc	100 00
Total per month	$887 00

"Now if 200 families of five persons each employed the laundry, and if the weekly wash of each family averaged six dozen, there would be 1,200 dozen. At this rate there would average for each month 5,200 dozen. If we divide the monthly expense by this 5,200 dozen we have, if our estimates and figures are correct, seventeen cents and seven hundredths of a cent per dozen, as the price at which washing can be done by a steam laundry in Kalamazoo."

These estimates would, we think, be a little too high for Pittsburgh—certainly they are not too low—so that any housekeeper can look at them and see if the price is not considerably less than that charged now by any existing laundry, and even less than washing costs when done at home, without taking into account the worry, labor and injury to the temper, which would be averted by thus practically abolishing Monday from the week. And the washing would be done scientifically, and well, two adjectives which cannot be truthfully applied to the laundry work of one out of every hundred of the servants in this city, who have such work to perform. In many families one of the servants—indispensible at present—could, with the washing done in this way, be easily and, we think, thankfully spared. The question, thus reduced to figures by enterprising Kalamazoo, is, we think, worth the earnest attention of our Pittsburgh housekeepers.

AT THE meeting of citizens, held in Allegheny, last evening, the proceedings of which will be found in our local columns, much anxious interest was manifested for the retention of the present Library room in the city building, as it had been intimated it would be required for municipal purposes. The privation of the present accommodations, it was clearly seen, would be much deprecated by a large majority of the citizens, and until the growing strength of the institution shall enable it to provide a suitable hall for its independent occupancy, it is sincerely and generally hoped that the Councils will find, for a few years longer, the requisite office room for city purposes, without interference with the Library, which, in its current operation, proves a most useful and beneficial organization.

were written on both sides of the paper; believes she could give the contents; remembers the words, the language, some of it.

Cross examined—First letter received in '67, the last of May or June; the second in the winter following; her father brought the last one, Emma Zilla the second. Read them just after her sister received them. Was in the kitchen when she read them; saw the writing; when her sister burned them was not certain whether she burned one or two, and searched to see if one was left; not certain how long since she went to school with Taylor; took the letters to be his writing; cannot say if the letters were written on one page or two pages; do not know whether the paper was blue or white; did testify before the inquest about these letters; supposes she told all she remembered; may remember more now than she did then; never counted the lines; can give now what she can mind; does not suppose she can tell which letter any certain thing was in; just took out of both letters what she can mind; when she states what was in one letter thinks she could tell which letter it was in; some of the words she would tell and which letter they were in; if asked what was in the second letter thinks she could tell the most of it.

Mr. Thompson plead that the same rule which applies to reported conversations, viz: that the whole should be given or none, should apply to this case; that the witness does not say she can give the substance of the letters.

Mr. McJunkin argued that even if witness can remember but one word of these letters, they have a right to require its repetition.

Charles McCandless followed for the defence, arguing that the witness must be able to state that she can give the entire contents of the letters, and that the prosecution is required to rebut the presumption that these letters were fraudulently destroyed.

He was followed by Mr. McJunkin, who argued that if witness had heard a conversation between the defendant and the deceased, in which he had threatened her life, she would not be required to give all the conversation.

Judge McGuffin ruled, that as the prosecution was to prove threats on the part of the prisoner, they are not required to prove other portions of the letters.

Witness was asked to state the contents of first letter. Said the letter commenced "Ann McCandless remember me, for you are the only one I love, but I fear you care nothing for me, and for that reason your life lies in my hands. You may think it is a poor consolation, but it is the best that I have got; before another shall have thee, I will end thy life, and then myself with my own hand. Excuse me, for the truth had better be known before it is too late.

TAYLOR HOCKENBURRY."

It was dated at the top, but witness cannot remember what the date was; at the head of the letter was a date. The letter given was the second letter; the one received last winter a year ago. The first letter commenced "Ann McCandless, if you loved me as I love you, I would be a happy man; but if not thy fate lies in the hand of the one that loves thee best, remember that;" his name was on the letter, written "my name, Taylor Hockenburry." Cannot remember anything more; does not mind that there was anything more in the letters; thinks she has given the contents of both the letters, and in the language of them.

Witness added voluntarily, "and then her name was wrote again at the lower end of both the letters." He usually wrote his name "Taylor Hockenburry;" we usually called him "Taylor:" had no knowledge of her sister writing any reply to these letters; does not remember any conversation between her sister and Taylor about these letters.

Cross-examined—Never wrote down any copy of this letter; never gave out the contents for any one to copy; the last letter had most in it; she just minded; had nothing to help her; does not remember if she said anything before the inquest about the second; believes she was called back a second time before the inquest. She remembers that the second time she remembered and told the inquest about a second letter in which the writer said, "I love you mad, Ann;" she had forgotten that part when giving the contents just now; but that was in the second letter; was near the end. This is all that she can remember; thinks it was all that was in it; does not recall anything more; have talked about these letters in the family; does not know that any other person ever had the letter; talked with Emma Zilla McCandless about it; she told me what she had read in it; Emma Zilla said she had opened the letter before she gave it to Annie; the conversation with Emma Zilla was since the inquest; does not mind that she stated to the inquest anything in the second letter; she could not remember just then what was in the first letter; the words, "I love you mad," were in the first letter; she minded better after talking with Emma Zilla; cannot remember when she had this conversation; never said anything to Taylor about the bullet holes in the wall before the time he pointed them out; do not remember that he was at the house after the shooting, before the time he pointed out the holes; think he was not.

Examination in chief resumed—The time she was examined before the inquest was the morning after the murder; she was in confusion and trouble; does not remember who examined her on the inquest.

Court took five minutes recess. Resumed.

Mrs. Ellen Graham called and sworn—Live in Beaver Falls; was on a visit last fall at Mr. George C. McCandless'. Witness was asked to relate the circumstances which occurred in his house, on the Sunday, when a man came and broke open the door.

Objected to by Mr. Thompson.

Objection noted and overruled.

On that day Mr. and Mrs. McCandless and Mary went to church; Ann and witness were left at home to keep house; she was in the kitchen; Ann was in the big room; witness saw some one come up on the porch, in his stocking feet, with a big black shawl over his head, and fastened down under his chin; he had a hatchet in his hand, and came within a few feet of witness; he asked me if the man of the house was at home; I said he was not.

Defense objected to hearing conversations.

Witness continued—The man, to the best of her knowledge, had a false face on; it was black, at all events; his hands were black; had a hatchet in his hand; the shawl was close over his head and hung down to his knees. There were socks or stockings on his feet; they were blue, or on the blue cast; he was a pretty big sized man, was pretty tall, good size in height; took it to be a false face he had on; did not see his hair; could see his pants below the shawl; they were pretty well scuffed, and dark; his hand was black; could see it when he went to break open the door; he came up the steps on to the porch; she was in the kitchen on the end of the porch, and the door was open; he come within two or three steps of her, passed the hall door, and sat still until Ann opened the hall door, and then shut it. Witness went into the dining room; he looked round when he heard the door shut, wheeled round, took the hatchet and pryed the door open; when Ann went in the dining room door, witness shut and bolted it. He opened the door from the hall and pointed a revolver at her. She turned round, unfastened the door and went out the way she had come in; then went to Mr. Roth's. Did not see Annie from the time she shut the door until witness came back; was so frightened could not see well. Did not go out the way the man came in, but in a different direction. No person came back with her; Mr. Roth came before her; there were several persons there when she came back, but the man was gone; did not look to see what he had done; had seen defendant several time before that: had heard him talk some, not much; did not recognize the voice on Sunday; was not so bad scared but she knew something was going on that was not right; saw the hatchet; it looked bright; the shawl was black, a large shawl, woolen, plain, with fringe; remained with Mr. McCandless until after the murder, six weeks save one day after the occurrence.

This witness repeated the incidents of the murder just as they were detailed by the former witnesses. She took a bit of the glass from the broken window out of the top of her own head next morning. A hatchet was shown to witness. She thinks it is like the hatchet used by the man that day, but it is not so bright.

Dr. McCandless, sworn—Is practicing physician and surgeon; lives in Unionville, about four miles from the house of Geo. C. McCandless; made a post mortem examination of the body of Mary Ann McCandless; the wounds were principally on the left side of the head; the left eye was destroyed; on the top of the head a portion of the scalp or skull had been carried away; witness never saw them; the internal organs were visible; on removing the scalp, several fractures in the cranium were revealed, through one of which several sharp points of lead were protruding; on removing the skull, parts of the lead were found flattened on the inner side of the skull and lodged there; it was also discovered that portions of the skull had been carried into the brain; the most extensive laceration passed in a transverse direction, backwards, large enough for witness to pass his fingers through; several portions of it were removed from the skull, and witness had them here; the wounds were sufficient to cause death; in the examination a portion of the skull about the size of a half dollar fell out; the infliction of the wounds and death would be occurrences of the same moment; the corpse was shrouded; it was on Monday morning, just before the funeral, and having ascertained the cause of death, did not pursue the examination, or see wounds said to be in the shoulder. [He here presented portions of bone taken from the skull.] There were from twenty-five to thirty perforations; cannot say whether the bits of lead were shot or slugs; it would appear that they were of a different sizes, else they would have been likely to go more together; can form no opinion of the kind of gun used in projecting the lead; it was not the thicker portions of the skull that were fractured.

No cross-examination. Dr. Milton Richardson called, but did not answer.

Daniel Graham next sworn—Is acquainted with defendant; came to live with witness the 9th of April; had seen him sometimes before when he lived with Mr. McCandless; he remained with him, with the exception of a few days, until he was arrested; paid him off once, and did not need him, but he came back and rather plead to be taken, and was; heard of the circumstance of a man breaking into Mr. McCandless' house; that day he ate breakfast with witness, who noticed him afterwards go to the barn and come back again, and go a second and third time to the barn, about 10 o'clock; did not see him again until after dinner or until two o'clock or after; the last time he went to the barn he was carrying my hatchet in his hand; [identified the hatchet shown to Mrs. Graham as the same prisoner was carrying; I did not hear him use the hatchet, and wondered what he was taking it out for on Sabbath morning. This was six weeks wanting but one day before the girl was shot; looked at the Almanac to be sure of the time. There was nothing to do at the barn that morning, and did not know of any errand he had there. He had a shot gun, an old rifle which had been bored out, and he had a small pistol; it was a breech-loading pistol, as small a one as witness ever had in his hands. These were the only fire arms witness knew him to have. On that morning, when he went to the barn, think he had on nothing but his shirt and pantaloons and a chip hat; he wore blue or blue-grey socks, woolen; wore no suspenders, a leather belt was used instead; it had a buckle on it; he wore it at his work generally. Did not see him go into the barn; he went around the barn, and was out of view from the house. Witness had a box of blacking at that time; it was in a book-case in his house; put it there himself; did not know but it was still there until occurrence of this murder; on the Sunday morning after it wanted the blacking; it was not there; Taylor Hockenburry came in, and asked him; he said he did not know, but said it was up there, pointing to where it had been; told him it was not there; did not see the box again until after the arrest; he had a hearing before the Justices; witness was there; sat down beside the defendent, who took the box of blacking out of his pocket; handed it to witness; it was out of his pantaloons pocket; he handed it to him under his hand; said "here is the box of blacking you were hunting for this morning; take it home with you." There had been just two small pairs of shoes blacked out of it before it was missed, and when he handed it to witness it was just as it is now, the blacking nearly all out, (showing marks by fingers,) and is nearly empty. Witness' daughter had a large black woolen shawl with fringe; she is insane, and was tearing her clothes; witness' wife brought that shawl down stairs and put it into a clothes-press; it is missing; this was some time before the occurrence on Sunday, at Mr. McCandless,' probably the Spring before. The sheaf eats in his barn had been corn up; a couple of dozen sheaves; cannot recollect if it was before or after New Years last, but it was after the arrest of prisoner: the oats had been torn up tween the time he fed the horses in evening and again the next morn when he first saw the hatchet after time prisoner carried it to the bar was in a room sticking between the s ding and weather-boarding, the p where it was usually kept; this was same Sunday evening after the oc rance at Mr. McCandless'; his then looked for the shawl, and it not there; this was the first time it missed; on that day defendant came after dinner, and witness told him had missed his dinner, and that he been going to the barn for him. fendant said he would not have fou him, for he was asleep at the back of t mow; witness remarked that he had be washing himself. He said yes, that eves were stiff when he awoke, and went to the coal bank spring and wash himself. This spring is thirty r from the house. The spring where th get water is four rods. They have a b where they usually washed. A gun shown and identified by witness as prisoner's gun; also a small pistol that had before the time of the Sunday occ rence. He had an oil cloth sack which he kept his clothes; identified pi tol and sack; prisoner had a room himself, up stairs, at the back of th house; a south room. He had his g and carpet sack in that room; there we two beds in it. He came through th front room to come down stairs. Th room was not used as a bed room. was not furnished. There is a way which one can get out of prisone room without coming down stairs. Th was by going through a window a down a ladder going out, and in th way he would not go through any pa of the house; witness himself had go out in that way. One could readily out in that way without being seen, a one could easily get a gun out that wa

At every step the case is cumbered b minute descriptions of places and di tances. On that Sunday witness had man named Long living with him, wh slept in the room with prisoner; ther were no other persons in the family, o that Sunday, but his wife and insan daughter. On the evening of the murde the prisoner had been hauling lumbe for witness; he got done and came home before dark; when it came time to go t preaching, he said he was going t preaching, and he went in that direction the road leads past Mr. McCandless' house; he had on clothes good enough; it was getting dark when he started; one could go a near way through the woods to Mr. McCandless'.

Court adjourned to meet to-morrow morning at half past eight o'clock.

THURSDAY MORNING.

Prisoner this morning looks pale, but more collected than yesterday, when his agitation was pittiable, especially while Mary McCandless detailed the contents of the lost letters.

Court met and proceeded with the testimony in chief of Daniel Graham. He wished to correct two statements made yesterday. It was on the evening after the funeral that they searched for the shawl and found it missing. Also, defendant started from his house for church on the morning of the murder, after the others had gone to church, instead of before, as he had stated yesterday. He was asked about the conduct of prisoner on Friday morning. That was previous to the murder. Defence objected, and the objection was stated in writing.

Mr. McJunkin stated the object was to prove that on Friday evening he had gone out, saying he was going to church, and that before church was out he came back. When asked if he had gone to church, he said "no," his nose had began bleeding. The testimony was not received.

TESTIMONY RESUMED.

On the evening of the murder defendant did not come home with the crowd. Witness was out on the road unhitching a team, when he returned and helped to put the horses away. Witness went into the house. After a short time defendant came in with Wm. English, who had driven the team. His mother, Mary Jane Healy, Harriet Ann Graham and Elizabeth M. Scott came in the wagon from church. Witness was sick and stayed at home. Defendant came up the road from the direction of the church. He was behind the wagon. Between ten and fifteen minutes he came into the house, but soon went out and came in again. Witness' wife gave a piece around, and gave defendant one with the rest; he ate it and went out again. When he came in witness' wife told him to take the boy, Wm. English, to bed with him. He staid in the room a while, then went up without the boy. After about fifteen minutes witness took the boy up to put him to bed with defendant, who was standing in the room and had not taken his clothes off. Told him he had brought him a bed-fellow, he said "very well." Witness asked if he should leave the candle; defendant said not. After a little W. H. McCandless rode up and to witness that Mary Ann McCandless was shot, and wanted witness to go over. Could not, but said he would wake Taylor up and send him over. Went up to his room. He was laying on his back, apparently asleep. Said to him, "Taylor, are you asleep?" He said "yes," sleepy like, then "no, I am not." Told him Nancy McCandless was shot dead. He said, "Is she? who told you?" I said Wm. H. McCandless. He said, "is she killed dead?" Witness said "yes, she was killed dead, and was lying on the floor." Told him he ought to get up and go over. Did not seem to get up. Told him again that he should get up and go over. He did get up and started. This was about eleven o'clock, and between two and three o'clock he came back and asked for a horse to go out and give word. He got the horse and went away. Came back again not long before daylight, and said Nelson Davis was going with him.

THE PRISONER AFTER THE MURDER.

After he came back we were sitting talking about the girl being killed. Asked him if McCandless had heard any one run away. He said he had not asked. Prisoner then asked witness if they could arrest any one for the crime when no one had been seen. Told him they could take any one they suspected. Asked what they could do with him if they did. Told him if he could give satisfactory evidence where he was they might acquit him. He held his head down and said nothing for some time. Witness said: "Taylor, you seem fatigued; better go to bed and get some sleep." Defendant said: "Could any person who had done such a thing sleep?" Witness told him it was not likely he would sleep much after doing an act of that kind; went up stairs but did not lay down. Defendant was called before witness, which was after sun-up. Defendant started after breakfast; went in the direction of the church, the way he had went the evening previous. Next place witness saw him was in George McCandless' house, where he gave witness the box of blacking. Did not see defendant make slugs. Heard a rumbling on his floor like he might be making slugs. Found marks of lead on the floor. It was after defendant was arrested that these were found. 'Squire Shannon and witness examined the floor together. Had been marked all round over a space of about a foot. It was a few days previous to the murder that

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 23, 1869.

The gold market was remarkably strong to-day, opening at 133⅛ and closing at the same rate. There is more desire now to be covered and nearly all the regular operators and importers buy just as fast as they have occasion to use it. It is more from apprehension that the United States would be drawn into a war with European nations in regard to Cuba, than from any actual legitimate demand for coin to be used in the settlement of our balances with Europe.

Government bonds are dull and inac- and a trifle lower than yesterday.

Stocks are dull and lower on nearly all the Western roads, but firm on the through routes.

Business is rather improving and money easier.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 23, 1869.

The metal market is devoid of anything new or important. The demand is only moderate, but with continued light arrivals and no accumulation of stocks, prices are sustained, particularly for desirable brands. It appears that the kind of irons most sought for are not here, while those that are here are not wanted; upon the whole, however, business is holding out as well as could be expected under existing ciocumstances.

Bar iron and Nails remain about as last reported. There is a continued steady fair demand and no accumulation of stocks, and the shipments West, both by river and rail, continue large. It is alleged, and we have no doubt it is true, that there is no margin for the manufacturer; but this will not be so always.

The markets, in a general way, present but little that is new or important. PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, FRIDAY, April 23, 1869.

There is little that is really new or important to be said about the oil trade a general way. The market was hard as strong in the afternoon as it was the early part of the day, though t feeling generally is firm and there is disposition manifested to make conce sions in order to effect sales. Indeed, the present condition of affairs, refine are so situated that they can neither s Refined or buy Crude, and, as we ha before stated, the great majority of o refineries are standing idle, and tho refiners who, maturing contracts a buying to cover, as they can do so better advantage than they can manufa ture it. How long the market will r main in its present condition it is dif cult even to conjecture, but it is to hoped that there will be a reaction soo

CRUDE—There was not a single o eration effected to-day, at least the were none reported, and while the ma ket is quiet and dull, prices are non nally unchanged, Spot oil may be qu ted at 15@15¼; May and June, 16; a buyer till August, 17¼@17½. The were reports current again to-day of offer to buy 10,000 for May seller, 6¼, delivered on cars at Oil City, but is doubtless the same offer that was o the other day, and was probably start again for effect.

REFINED—But two sales reporte 500 and 1,500, both for last half April, 32¼. Quotations—May, 33½; May a June, 34; April to June, 33½@33¾; M to August, 35; May to December, June to December, 36. Buyers opti all the year, nominal at 38½@39.

The New Revenue Law.

The Internal Revenue law of April 10th makes certain changes as to licenses of liquor dealers and others, which are of much importance just now, as the present license will expire on the last day of this month.

The license of a retail liquor dealer remains at twenty-five dollars, but the condition is changed. The law now defines a "retail liquor dealer" to be one who sells, or offers for sale foreign or domestic distilled spirits, wines or malt liquors, in less quantities than five gallons at the same time.

The license of the wholesale liquor dealer also remains at one hundred dollars, but the condition is also changed. The "wholesale liquor dealer" is defined to be one who sells or offers for sale foreign or domestic distilled spirits, wines or malt liquors in quantities of not less than five gallons at the same time.

The license tax of the rectifier is still two hundred dollars, but under the law the "compounder" of the act of July 20, 1868, is now a "rectifier," and instead of his license being limited to twenty-five dollars, it is increased to two hundred dollars.

The law also provides that dealers in liquors whose sales, including sales of all other merchandise, shall exceed twenty-five thousand dollars, shall each pay an additional tax at the rate of one dollar for every one hundred dollars of sales of liquors in excess of said twenty-five thousand dollars, and on every thousand dollars of sales of other merchandise, shall pay at the same rate as a wholesale dealer, to wit, one dollar on the thousand dollars.

Distillers of spirits from grapes, apples and peaches, who have heretofore escaped license tax, will now have to pay fifty dollars if they produce less than one hundred and fifty barrels annually, and in addition thereto the tax of four dollars per barrel of forty proof gallons.—Cleveland Herald.

Washington Items.

The inauguration of the Quaker policy with the Indians was made yesterday by the nomination to the Senate of eighteen Pennsylvania and Maryland Quakers, recommended by the Society of Friends, as Superintendents of Indian Affairs. These Quakers are not full of confidence in the mission, but merely ask the privilege to try the experiment of civilizing the Indians to such an extent that they will secure permanent peace. These appointments are the result of a patient investigation on the part of the leading members of the sect, and the men recommended are selected from the very best among their number. Their experiment is watched with a great deal of interest. There are many circumstances favorable to their success, chief of which is the fact that several of the most hostile tribes are now assuming a very peaceful attitude, as a result of the severe chastisement of Sheridan and Custar during the past Winter. The whole posse of the old Indian Agents and contractors will now make an effort to get possession of these agents, and failing in that, they will combine to baffle their efforts, then attack them, and drive them from the field.

Small and unprincipled bands of speculators are daily putting forth the "latest Cuban news," which is manufactured here out of whole cloth. One of the recent specimens was, the alleged expedition of General Steadman, with a thousand men, arms, &c., and then later came the statement that he had landed, &c. There is not the slightest foundation for any of these Roorbacks, and they are intended mainly to help put up gold, and, if possible, to induce ignorant people to buy Cuban bonds.

A Drunkard's Stomach on Fire.

About midnight on Sunday last, the people of the Village of Rainbow, near New Haven, Ct., were awakened by the cry of fire, which proved to be caused by the burning of a two story frame house, owned by John Darwin, and occupied by him as a liquor saloon, which was completely destroyed. Those neighbors first on the spot found Darwin lying on the ground so badly burned as to be nearly insensible. He was conveyed to a neighboring house, but died in great agony before morning. It appears that the unfortunate man, as soon as he had discovered the fire, ran out of the House, but subsequently returned to save his five sleeping children. He was badly intoxicated at the time, and entering the burning building, the flames struck him in the face, and immediately, owing to the amount of liquor he had drank, set fire to the inside of his throat and stomach, burning up his tongue, so that when he was found that organ was a mere crisp. The children were saved by the neighbors; one of them was badly scorched. The eldest boy says a general carousal had been going on in the saloon, and while some one intoxicated was drawing liquor, he probably set fire to an old feather bed near the barrel. Everything in the house was burned, and the children are thus left orphans and unprovided for.

THE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT in Cambridge, Massachusetts, is to be fifty-five feet high, and built entirely of granite, except the bronze tablets for the names of the soldiers, &c. The platform, twenty-five feet square, supports a heavy granite pedestal, thirteen feet square and eight feet high, with buttresses projecting from the corners, in which will be inserted the bronze tablets, each surmounted by an American eagle. Other bronze tablets are entered upon the faces of the pedestal, for the dedicatory statement and historical bas-reliefs. Two massive plinths surmount this, on which is an arcade of the Corinthian order, ten feet six inches square, in the pediments of which are bas-reliefs of military and naval emblems, provision being made to place within the chamber an altar of liberty or a statue. Above this the monument rises fifteen feet to the foot of the statue, containing appropriate bas-reliefs. The statue is to be ten feet high.

THE State of Iowa is counted among those which have ratified the fifteenth constitutional amendment. This is an error. Iowa has had no opportunity to ratify that amendment, having had no Legislature in session since early in April, 1868. The next Legislature of that State will convene in January, 1870, when, unless an insane movement for a third party, on a prohibition platform, now, to some extent, talked of, shall succeed, the amendment will be adopted. The said movement being in the secret interest of the Democracy, however, there is precious little chance of its amounting to anything

THE COURTS.

District Court—Judge Kirkpatrick.

FRIDAY, April 23.—The case of Eiferth vs. Malone, previously reported, was resumed and concluded. The jury found for the defendant.

In the case of Young vs. People's Line the plaintiff took a non suit.

Murphy and wife vs. Administrators of David Sproull. Motion for new trial, and the following reasons filed:

First,—The Court erred in rejecting evidence offerred by defendant as per written offers on file.

Second—The Court erred in not affirming the first and second points submitted by defendant's counsel.

Third—The Court reserved points of law, and the verdict is not so rendered as to enable the Court to pass on the points so reserved.

Fourth—The verdict is excessive, and is not sustained by the rulings of the Court.

Fifth—The jury after having agreed on the basis of the verdict, made a mistake in making up the amount, which was not discovered until after the rendition of the verdict and separation of the jury.

Common Pleas—Judge Sterrett.

The Annexation of Canada.

A New York Tribune correspondent, writing from Montreal, says:

The desire of the people of the New Dominion to cut loose from their dependency upon the mother country, has received a powerful impetus from one or two recent events, and whatever course may finally be adopted, there can be little doubt that a great political change of some sort is not far distant. Several private meetings of influential persons have recently been held here for the purpose of considering the great question of a change in the form of government, and general dissatisfaction with the present state of things, is more and more openly expressed. The newspapers are at last beginning to meet the question face to face, and are giving utterance to the sentiment which has long been widely dispersed among the people, although few have had the courage to express publicly in favor of independence, but the larger party aims at annexation to the United States, and will soon make itself prominent. The acquisition of the Hudson Bay territory has given additional force to the arguments of the annexationists. It is felt that such a magnificent domain as the new dominion now promises to be, ought no longer to be dwarfed and kept down by dependence on a trans-Atlantic Government. The proposal that Great Britain shall surrender her North American possessions as a set off against the Alabama claims, has created a deep sensation in certain circles. Not a few regard it with decided favor.

—At St. Louis, Wednesday morning, while the rubbish of an old building was being hauled away, the flooring upon which a team and wagon were standing gave way, and the wagon and three men were precipitated into the cellar beneath. The falling floor brought down a portion of the standing wall, which fell on and buried the men. One man, named Michael Delaney, was killed. Another, name not learned, was badly cut about the face and heard, and had a rib or two broken, and the third escaped with but a few scratches.

BUTLER HOMICIDE TRIAL.

the sound was heard; thinks it was on the Sabbath before. Defendant was in the habit of keeping his gun at the head of his bed. The night of the murder it was standing back of the door. Witness observed the gun the third time he was up stairs with a light; saw it there when he went to call him up and tell him of the murder. Had not been in the room for some days before; had no knowledge of his using the gun. About three weeks previous, on a wet day, cleaned the gun. Had no knowledge of his having it out afterwards. On the morning defendant went to the barn with the hatchet, he wore dark pantaloons.

CROSS EXAMINATION.

Cross-examined.—Was not examined before the inquest; was before the Justices on Sunday afternoon; did not get the blacking box until after he was examined; had purchased the box maybe two months before it was missed; never knew of Taylor blacking his shoes; is pretty certain no member of his family had used it; is confident there were but two pairs of little shoes blacked out of it, and these were of children, visitors, and witness blacked them; the book case stands in a buttery; has no doors: the same room in which the hatchet was kept; thinks he saw the hatchet the same evening he heard of the man breaking into Mr. McC's. house; had not had my attention called to the shawl for months before the day of the breaking; thought of it that evening, but did not search then; Simon Stickle told witness of the breaking. Hatchet had been rusty. Ground it about two weeks before the occurence. Thought the evening he heard of this of having ground the hatchet. Both hatchet and blacking box was accessible to any member of the family. Hatchet had not been at the coal bank for some days before this Sunday. Was may-be more than a week since the hatchet was used at the coal bank. It might have been a couple of days before the Sunday transaction that the hatchet was ground. Witness' attention was called to defendant on the Sunday morning of the breaking, by his carrying the hatchet as if he wished to conceal it from witness, and because he went the back way, and on the morning of the murder by his manner—it was confused. Thought he might have been affected by the preaching. The gun belonged to Taylor. He sometimes used the gun. Shot two pheasants for witness when he was sick. It is common to make slugs by rolling lead on the floor. Witness introduced the conversation on the morning after the murder about the probable escape of the murderer; defendant and witness had always been friendly; defendant had looked up to witness' opinion and sought his advice. Does not know when Taylor got the four-shooter exhibited in Court yesterday. Know defendant has one pair of blue socks; does not know how many other pairs he has; the blue pair has white toes. The day of the barn burning Taylor Hockenburry was in witness' house. Went to bed early and was there in the morning. Witness' insane daughter has destroyed her clothes; the shawl was put into a clothes-press, that was not always locked; his daughter has the freedom of the house in day-light. The ladder by which one can reach Taylor's room, from the outside, was at the spring house on the day of the breaking of Mr. McC.'s house; it had been at Mr. Long's, and when brought home was left at the spring house; does not know that it had been away from the spring house; before the murder, Taylor was steady and seldom went any place, but to Mr. Geo. C. McCandless'; went there frequently.

Examination in chief resumed—Taylor attended the Baptist church; went sometimes, not often; observed marks on the Monday after the murder, of the ladder having been moved; it had rained and there was a fresh break at the spring house; the ground is hard at the back of the house; there was no mark of the ladder having been set there; one could not easily get into Taylor's room without the ladder; a gun could be taken from the loft adjoining his room by going a few steps up the ladder.

SHUGART TRIAL PUT OVER.

Prior to adjourning Court, Lewis Mitchell made a motion for the postponement of the trial of Mrs. Shugart and Miller, on the ground that it would be wrong to keep the present jury in custody while aneother should be impannelled, and that no jury could be sworn next week. The cases were continued until next term.

—The stolen registered bonds recovered by the officers of the Beneficial Savings Fund, Philadelphia, were returned by express. They are supposed to have been returned because they were useless to thieves, who still remain unmolested.

—At a special meeting of the Quebec City Council, (Canada) the other day, a disturbance took place, which threatened serious consequences. Revolvers were drawn and some blows exchanged. The Mayor made an attempt to restore order, but his authority was defied, and the police were finally called in and dispersed the meeting.

—Rev. James Marshall, Catholic priest, pastor of the St. Boniface church, in Chicago, who was arrested a short time since, charged with forging the name of Rev. M. Arbrecht, his predecessor in the pastorship of the church, to an express receipt for some wine and grapes, has been discharged from arrest, the charge against him looking something like a conspiracy.

Married,—Mr. William M. Ramsey, the gentlemanly manager of the Petrolite Oil Works, was married on Thursday last, to a gifted and charming lady of Freeport, Pa. The young couple have our best wishes for their happiness.

There was a rumor going the rounds yesterday that the author of an anonymous communication, which appeared in a cotemporary a few days since, had been discovered and severely horsewhipped by a relative of one of the parties insulted in the communication.

Sunk.—Yesterday morning, one boat, two barges and a fuel flat, loaded with coal and part of the steamer Ella's tow, was sunk by coming in contact with the railroad bridge at Steubenville. The owners, Messrs. Horn, Wood & Co., will loose about $7,000 by the accident.

Trinity Church, next Wednesday, is to have one of the most fashionable weddings ever celebrated in this city. We should like to name the couple contemplating entering the responsible state of matrimony, but know our readers can await patiently the particulars which we promise to furnish.

Personal.—Our warm-hearted and generous friend, Mr. William D. Allen, of Philadelphia, late of this city, has taken to himself as a partner for life, one of the Allegheny's fairest and most accomplished daughters. We tender him our heartiest congratulations.

Whipped her Child.—Catharine Soner alleges that Eliza Aul committed an assault and battery on her daughter, May Soner, aged about twelve years, by striking her in the mouth with her fist. The parties reside at the Point. A warrant was issued by Alderman Strain.

E. & C. Maginn, Steam Cracker Bakers and Confectioners, have opened a new store at No. 295 Liberty street, next door to John Wilson & Son, with a large stock of confectionery, foreign fruits and nuts, canned goods, pickles, &c. Orders respectfully solicited. D&W

Run Over.—Yesterday morning a little child was run over by an express wagon at the corner of Pike and Walnut streets, and very seriously, if not dangerously, injured. The accident is said to have resulted from carelessness, but as the driver proposed to pay for medical attention until the child recovered, the parents declined to prosecute.

Malicious Mischief.—James J. Campbell alleged he was driving down Fifth avenue yestesday morning in a light spring wagon, when, through the careless of John McCune, driver of a stone wagon, a collision occurred between the vehicles, the ligher one being almost demolished. A warrant for McCune's arrest was issued by Alderman McMasters.

St. Agnes Church Fair.—This evening the silver mounted whip and other valuable articles will be disposed of by sealed ballots, which will be received up to 9½ o'clock. The gold headed cane for the most popular candidate for Sheriff is bringing out their friends by the score. Messrs. Hare, Ross, Fleming and Stubbs lead off. We venture a prediction—the winner of this cane will be the nominee.

Rev. D. C. Page, D.D., Rector ad interim of Christ Church, Allegheny, will preach a sermon at 10½ o'clock, A. M., on Sunday, 25th inst., on "The Reverence Due to the Hoary, and the Specific Relation of Young America to Our Social Status and the Church of God." The subject is important and suited to the times, and sure to be treated with masterly ability by the distinguished preacher.

Notice.—The Rev. Dudley Asbury, the eloquent and scholarly pulpit orator, who has recently been appointed to the charge of Brown's A. M. E. Chapel, corner of Boyle and Hemlock streets, Allegheny, will preach in the Chapel to-morrow (Sabbath) morning at 10½ o'clock, and in the evening at 7½ o'clock. The public will be kindly received and accommodated by the officers of the Church. All are invited to attend.

Disorderly House.—The Allegheny Police, Thursday evening, made a raid on a disorderly house on Arbuckle's alley, Fourth Ward, kept by Mrs. Douglass. They succeeded in arresting four men and two women, all of whom were sent to jail, yesterday morning, by Mayor Drum for twenty days each. The parties are said to have come from this city, since the first of the present month. The new ordinance relative to disorderly houses in force here, caused their exodus from this side.

Explosion.

Yesterday afternoon, the acid chamber of a soda fountain, in Clark's drug store, Fifth avenue, exploded, scattering the contents in all directions. A portion of the acid was thrown upon Mr. Clark and a gentleman who was working at the apparatus, endeavoring to discover a leak. The injurious action of the acid was neutralized, however, by other chemicals promptly applied. The accident occurred in the cellar, and underneath the store, but no damage resulted to the premises. An examination revealed the lead lining of the generator as worn partly away by the action of the acid, which was the cause of the explosion.

Pittsburgher in Trouble.

A Zanesville paper gives the particulars of the arrest of John Coleman, who claims to be a Pittsburgher. Coleman, it is stated, went into a beer saloon in the town, Wednesday evening, in an intoxicated condition, and while flourishing a revolver, discharged the weapon, the ball passing through the window and killing a valuable horse just then standing in front of the saloon. The man was at once lodged in jail to await the action of the Grand Jury at its present session. The offence is punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary.

The Allegheny Library.

A very interesting meeting of the friends and directors of the Allegheny Library was held last evening in the office of the National Insurance Company, Allegheny. C. C. Boyle, Esq., was called upon to preside, and the reporters of the press designated as Secretaries.

The meeting was called for the purpose of taking some action in reference to the threatened removal of the Library from the Cty Building, in order to provide for the city officials.

The discussion was quite animated and interesting, but owing to an unusual pressure on our columne this morning, we are compelled to omit the extended account prepared by our reporter. The gist of the difficulty seemed to be, as was stated by one of the speakers, that if the Library were removed, no suitable room for its accommodation could be procured, and even were such a room procurable, the revenue at present enjoyed by the institution would be insufficient, to meet the additional expense thus incurred. The Library is yet in its infancy and needs some little assistance until it can be firmly established. It has only been organized about four years, and is every year increasing in strength. In a few more years the confident expectation is that it will be self supporting.

After a full and free interchange of views upon the question, Mr. James E. Stevenson embodied the sense of the meeting in the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, We learn with regret there exists a disposition on the part of some members of the Councils to eject the Library from the room that they now occupy; and whereas, we feel that the loss of the only eligible room in the city will be equivalent to the destruction of the Library; and whereas, we learn that the architect has prepared a plan which will accommodate the city officers without disturbing the Library; therefore

Resolved, That Councils are respectfully urged to adopt such plan, believing it will meet the approbation of the people.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. C. C. Boyle, A. Leggate, James Caldwell and Henry Phipps, was then appointed to confer with the Committee on City Property of City Councils in reference to the matter, after which the meeting adjourned.

The New Market House—A Site Recommended by the Committee.

The Market Committee of City Councils met last evening at City Hall. There were present Messrs. McEwen, Caskey, Littell, Zern, Daub, Anderson, Seiferth and Houston. The various sites for a new market house, inspected by the Committee some days ago, were discussed, aad, after mature deliberation, that on the corner of Fifth avenue and Miltenberger street, owned by W. B. Lyon, Esq., was accepted. The property has a front of 240 feet on the avenue and and a depth of 120 feet back to Beech alley. The cost will be $35,000. There is a second tier of lots in the rear fronting on Forbes street and of the same dimensions, which the Committee recommend to be included in the purchase at $30,000. This will give an area of 240 feet square, divided in the center by Beech alley, and bounded in front by Fifth avenue and in the rear by Forbes street, at $65,000, on ten years time for payment, with interest.

The Committee decided to at once make the necessary repairs on City Hall, and to advertise for proposals for the painting, frescoing and carpentering work to be done. A supper room will be made by extending the gallery over the front entrance some fifteen or twenty feet, and not at the rear end of the hall as originally proposed. After the transaction of some other business, the Committee adjourned at a late hour.

Painful Accident—Hand Amputated.

Emerson Zimmerman, a boy about fourteen years of age, employed in Lewis, Oliver & Phillips' rolling mill, Birmingham, met with a painful accident Thursday evening, which resulted in the loss of his left hand. He was employed in the mill as straightener on the night "turn," and about eleven o'clock, Thursday evening, while drawing a bar of iron from the rolls, the tongs slipped, causing him to fall backward, and in attempting to recover or break the fall, he threw up his hands. Unfortunately the bar shears, which were located in the rear and to the left of him, were in motion, and in his efforts to recover from the fall his left hand was caught in them and at one cut was almost severed at the wrist. Both bones of the fore-arm were severed, and nothing held them together but a small portion of flesh and one ligament or sinew which connected with the little finger. Dr. Chessrown was sent for, and on examining the arm found that it would be impossible to save the hand, and amputated it.

It is stated that the shears should not have been running at that time, but through the carelessness of some one had not been stopped.

The Auction Sale Continues—Elegant Lines of Laces and Embroideries to be Offered To-day.

The great attraction on Market street during the present week has been the auction sale of goods going forward at W. W. Moorhead's popular and fashionable retail trimming store, No. 81 Market street. The really elegant stock of goods held by this establishment, embraces the prettiest and finest lines of lace goods and embroideries, and the prices at which they are sold under the hammer are so cheap and reasonable as to excite wonder. However, as the sale has been arranged to close out all the goods to make place for fresh invoices, no regard can be paid to the prime cost. We urge all our lady readers to pay this place a visit during the continuance of the great auction sale, and our word for it, they will profit by doing so.

New Omnibus Line.

There is talk of establishing an omnibus line from the Custom House, Pittsburgh, to connect with the Pleasant Valley Passenger Railway, Allegheny, The route to be by way of Hand street bridge, over the streets upon which a right of way for the Pleasant Valley Railway was asked and refused, a bill to that effect having failed to be sanctioned by the Legislature. The proposed line will be disconnected with the railway company as a corporation, but will work in harmony with it, only one fare each way being charged from the Custom House to the terminus of the Railway, Second ward, Allegheny. The matter will probably assume definite shape in a few days.

Take Notice.—Mr. Fred. Ramig respectfully notifies his friends and the public generally that his Restaurant will be open this day, at No. 52 Smithfield street.

The Toothache.

"For there was never yet philosopher,
That could endure the toothache patiently."
SHAKESPEARE.

You awake some fine morning with a jumping pain in the left wisdom tooth. Coming home from Jones' party last night in the face of that damp east wind is speedily assigned as the cause of your misery. You knew, of course, that the molar was dilapidated, but with a reluctance to part with an old friend, would not have it harshly dealt with. But a fresh twang interrupts your meditations. Murder! Human nature can't endure this long, and your eye regards with a momentary satisfaction the revolver in the open drawer.

"To be, or not to be? that is the question;
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slings and arrows of outrageous fortune,
Or to take up arms against a sea of troubles,
And by opposing, end them!"

As you enter the dining-room, holding the obnoxious jaw with both hands, every eye beams with anxiety. Much good advice is tendered. Dip some cotton into laudanum, and stick it into the tooth. Let me apply a mustard-plaster. You oughtn't to go out after this at night. Try a pipe of Killikinick. You had better give up party going till August. Pluck up courage, my son, and have it out.

It is a remarkable fact in the history of science that as soon as the sufferer reaches the door-step of a dentist, the pain has vanished, and nothing but self-respect keeps the candidate from running away, even after he has pulled the bell. The surgeon advances with a smile. With trembling voice your errand is made known. Please take a seat. It is a large, easy chair, with high back, softly cushioned, and, on any other occasion, just the thing for an after-dinner nap, but now has about as much comfort for your nervous frame as a seat of iron spikes. Throw back your head and open your mouth. Where is it. Ah! I see. You feel that your time has come. How foolish it is to be afraid. Thousands have gone through it before me. There was poor John Rogers followed to the stake by his wife and nine small children. The cheerful fingering of the executioner among his weapons on the table is over, and he approaches his victim. will you take laughing gas? No, doctor, if I must shuffle off this mortal coil, let me do it with a clear head. I wish to remain sensible to the last. Are you ready? You are. Closing your eyes, while the head is seized with one hand, the instrument of death is inserted with the other. A wild yell, a convulsive kick, and in another moment the man of the tweezers holds aloft a solid piece of ivory.

But why have such terror of an operation which can be performed without inflicting the least pain, by a perfectly safe process. Dr. J. Scott has extracted teeth for OVER TWENTY THOUSAND PERSONS without injury resulting in one single case, and will guarantee to do so for any that may call upon him. He also inserts artificial teeth in every style, at prices which defy competition, and guarantees satisfaction in every case. His work is celebrated in this region as the very best that can be manufactured: Remember his number 278 Penn street.

"Money Saved is as Good as Money Earned."

So says "Poor Richard." One of the ways of exemplifying in practical life the wisdom and truth of this maxim of the great Philosopher—a way which we commend to that large portion of our readers who, at this season of the year, are furnishing, or refurnishing their dwellings with new carpets, is to purchase from the old firm of O. McClintock & Co., whose advertisement appears elsewhere in these columns, who have, besides their complete arrangements for constant and large supplies from all the best American Factories, made personal visitation to the best known Carpet Factories of Europe, and effected economic arrangements for continuous direct importations, thus avoiding the multiform charges and commissions to which they had before been subjected, and enabling them to keep and display at their extensive ware-rooms, No. 23 Fifth avenue, qualities and styles of foreign carpets, renowned over the world for their texture and exquisite beauty, and customers should remember that by regular monthly importations every new product of the English or German looms is quickly exhibited at McClintock's sales-rooms, and sold as cheap as by the Eastern importers. We are glad to notice that the energy, enterprise and forecast of the McClintock brothers is rewarded by an appreciative public, as attested by their increased daily sales, compared with any former year of their long experience.

The Keystone Pottery.

Formerly it was the custom to deride any article of home manufacture as inferior in quality to that imported. The circumstances have changed, however, and now our home manufacturers, especially in some particular branches of trade, are looked upon as, in many respects, superior to that heretofore so highly prized because of foreign make. As an evidence of this changed feeling, the great popularity of the wares manufactured at the Keystone Pottery may be cited as an example. Messrs. Kier & Co., have succeeded in manufacturing goods which, for finish and durability, cannot be excelled anywhere, while the cost is much less than that heretofore paid for an imported article, hence their great popularity. Those, however, who are not yet convinced that Pittsburgh can produce a good article in this line should call at Messrs. Kier & Co.'s warehouse, No. 363 Liberty street, and judge by ocular demonstrations.

Grand Opening

Of the new and beautiful "Palace of Music," No. 60 Fifth avenue, Opera House Building, on Monday, the 26th inst. This large and beautiful room has been refitted in the grandest style, and presents a most handsome appearance, being truly an honor to our city. The proprietors of this new music house. Messrs. Hoffman & Hale, are men of gereat exerience in the music business, being energetic, wide awake, and fully up to the times, as you may see by a visit to their extensive establishment. They will be pleased to show you their pianos, organs, &c. Give them a call before purchasing elsewhere. We can assure our readers that they can nowhere else obtain better selection in musical goods at more reasonable prices.

Notice.—The Rev. Christopher Williams, the famous Baptist preacher of the Valley of Virginia, and recently of Cleveland, Ohio, will preach in the First Colored Baptist Church on the morrow (Lord's Day) morning at 10½ o'clock, and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock. The public are kindly invited to be present. The church occupies Davis' Hall, on Water street, a few yards from Federal street, Allegheny City.

Liebler, No. 104 Wood street, at the extensive Premium Trunk Factory, continues to offer the very best home made trunks and valises at popular prices.

Ladies' Spring and Summer Suits.

There is one feature of the stock which Messrs. Bates & Bell have now on hand at their store, 21 Fifth avenue, that merits special attention, and is generally and deservedly admired by the ladies. We refer to the large and varied assortment of black silk, poplin, linen and alpaca walking dresses, and we feel warranted in stating that it is one of the most attractive ever exhibited in this city. It comprises ready made suits in all the late French styles and designs which are, perhaps, far superior to any we can produce in Pittsburgh, in regard to accuracy of fit and general gracefulness. The silks are very beautiful, and with their different shapes and trimmings, present a charming variety to the purchaser. The poplin suits represent every shade of color, and are all neat and tasteful. They range in price from $22,00 upwards and are in great demand. In a notice, yesterday, we referred to the handsome linen seaside suits, and to-day we have only to repeat that nothing at once so cheap and so well adapted to summer wear has been offered here for many seasons. They are complete in every respect, and yet sell so low as $18,00. In the line of alpacas there is a display of almost equally attractive suits. Of the various imported goods we have mentioned, Messrs. Bates & Bell have large assortments, ready made-up and fit for immediate wear. They represent all that is fashionable or fresh in Paris or the East, and are finer than can be produced here. Those, however, who desire to leave orders for suits will have a choice and extensive lot of fabrics to select from and some of our best home modistes who are in the service of the firm to prepare them. We will close by noting that in the cloak room, yesterday, we were shown no less than thirty different styles of black silk mantles, cloaks and sacques, each one apparently outstripping the others in elegance and richness, as they were successively exhibited. They ranged in price from $10,00 to $65,00, and are chiefly imported from the leading European houses. There is one new style among them, the sleveless basque, which is particularly noticeable for its novelty and beauty. Ladies know where to go for goods of this character.

Books and Stationery.

Colonel J. D. Egan, Sixth avenue, near Smithfield street, has on hand a large stock of new books, which embrace all the late publications of the principal eastern publishing houses, also an endless variety of second hand books, among which are many rare and valuable volumes, which he is selling at half price. His stock of sunday school library books is one of the largest and most complete to be found in the city and the reduced rates at which he is selling them, offer superior inducement to schools where new books are needed. On his counter will be found all the periodicals and magazines, and his stock of stationery is full and complete.

X L All.

The Refrigerator so well known by the above name, has been sold in this market for ten years, has had many competitors, but has earned and justly wears its euphonious name, as in point of fact it does X L all others in the thorough satisfaction given to all who have tried them. We say this on the warrant of a three years' trial of one of them. George W. Huhley, No. 68 Federal street, Allegheny, is the sole agent for this admirable Refrigerator, and as the supply is limited, he advises those who would prepare for the coming hot weather, to put their orders in early. Reference will be made to numerous families who have tested their merits, and declare they X L all.

In a New Place.

Asa Waugaman, the popular host who drew so much trade to the "Home," on Fifth avenue, has taken possession of the saloon stand No. 44 Smithfield street, where his numerous friends will find him. He is thoroughly refitting the stand and when all his improvements are completed will have one of the finest and most elegant saloons in the city, and the high reputation which the owner bears is sufficient guarantee of the high toned manner in which it will be conducted. Although not entirely ready to receive his friends, still Mr. Waugaman will be found presiding at the bar of his new house with a genial welcome for all the friends who may call.

Confirmation by the Senate.

The minister nominated some time ago to represent our Government in that old and popular Empire, the "Land of Nod," has been unanimously confirmed by the Senate, and will enter immediately upon his mission. New Laughing Gas is the name of our representative there, and we are assured by our friend, Dr. Gillespie, No. 246 Penn street, that he will faithfully represent the interests of the public in that land of dreams, and that hereafter all our relations, diplomatic and otherwise, shall be of the most agreeable character.

At the popular "Corner Dry Goods Store" of Richard Deakers, Fifth avenue and Grant street, will be found a splendid stock of carpets at very popular prices, such as might have been considered cheap previous to the war. The stock is large and the selection fine, and we urge our lady readers to visit the carpet room of the Corner Dry Goods Store before purchasing elsewhere. An admirable stock of dry goods has also just been received and offered at the usually reasonable prices which have long made the house popular.

Lots! Lots! Lots! Lots! Lots! Lots!—Remember the sale of Dihm's lots on the Perrysville road, near the Observatory, this (Saturday) afternoon, at three o'clock. This will be the last chance on thsse fine lots. Be in time. A. Leggate, Auctioneer.

The best evidence that trade is lively in the city is adduced from the fact that Leibler, No. 104 Wood street, is driving an immense business in trunks, valises, carpet bags, etc., all of which of course he sells at lowest cash prices. Give him a call.

It is a fact that Leibler, No. 104 Wood street, rules the trunk trade in the west. He sells at wholesale and retail prices which defy competition. Readers in need of anything in the line should not fail to pay him a visit.

Have you ever tried the Excelsior browned coffee, put up in pound packages by the Iron City Spice Mills, Fifth avenue, near High street, and for sale at the groceries? It is the best article in the market.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Mr. and Mrs. Watkins, who have been playing an engagement at the Opera House during the present week, took a benefit last night. There was quite a large audience present. They will appear at the matinee this afternoon, when the new comedy entitled "School" will be presented, and the engagement will close with this evening's entertainment, when will be presented the "Pioneer Patriot." Monday evening Mr. M. W. Canning, the Manager of the Opera House, will, at the solicitation of a number of friends, take a complimentary benefit, on which occasion an interesting and attractive bill will be presented.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The attendance at the Pittsburgh Theatre, notwithstanding the lateness of the season, continues large. The house is filled from pit to gallery every night. Mr. James Taylor, the inimitable comique vocalist, has been one of the principal attractions. Rare Bargains.

W. W. Morehead, No. 81 Market street, in order to make room for a fresh supply of goods, is closing out his present stock by auction. The stock comprises everything usually kept in a first class trimming and furnishing store, and is being disposed of at prices marvelously low. Every article on sale is of the very best quality, and cannot fail to give perfect satisfaction, a fault which renders this sale one of unusual attention. Persons in want of any article in this line should make a note of this sale, and visit the store promptly, as it will continue but a short time. Such an opportunity for rare bargains may not occur again, and the wise will see the necessity of taking advantage of it.

Inviograting and Refreshing.

Exercise in the open air, morning walks, tonic bitters, and a hundred other things are represented as invigorators, and for aught we know may be, but if any of our readers desire something of an invigorating and refreshing nature we take pleasure in referring them to the Continental Dining Saloon, Fifth avenue, next door to the Postoffice. A meal prepared in this establishment, over which Mr. Holtzheimer presides, is highly invigorating to a weak stomach and the most refreshing thing imaginable to an empty one. Try the remedy and you will abandon morning walks, gymnastics, tonics, &c.

In either case we can cheerfully recommend them to the establishment of Mr. Megraw.
